

The official opening of the new Mini Blues Zone at Adams Park was greeted with fantastic reviews from parents whose kids enjoyed pre-match entertainment with a games console, air hockey table, arts and crafts table, board games and sensory corner.

Operated by Shields & Dragons, who are also providing a bouncy castle outside the Caledonian Suite on home matchdays, the Mini Blues Zone is situated alongside the Caledonian Suite, and is free to enter with no charge for any activities.

Here's just a snapshot of the feedback received:

"This is incredible what you have done with this space"

"Thank you so much; our children have had a fab time and we will see you for the Reading game"

"This is a great addition"

"My kids loved it and wanted to go back in after the game"

"A brilliant asset for our young fans"

"My child had the best afternoon; such a warm welcome, beautifully decorated and thoughtfully planned space"

"The perfect addition to our Saturdays at Adams Park., Cant wait for the next home game!"

"My boy loved it; thank you so much. He even made new friends playing on the PlayStation"

In addition to the Mini Blues Zone and bouncy castle, the club also offers a fast-feet challenge in the Chairboys Village, while the Supporters Trust offer free face painting for kids.

Please note that children are asked to have their faces painted after playing on the bouncy castle, to prevent paint stains on the fabric.
