

Wycombe Wanderers @wwfcofficial · Aug 4

Rest in peace Kirk Corbin, who has died at the age of 70.

Kirk was a popular figure at Loakes Park between 1986-88, making 80 appearances at full-back.

Barbados born, Kirk was only the sixth black player to represent the club.

Our thoughts are with his friends and family.

John D Taylor

All-star contributor · August 15 at 12:03 PM ·

There were tears but plenty of smiles as family, friends and former playing colleagues said their final farewells to Kirk Corbin. The former Wanderers full-back, who made 80 senior appearances at Loakes Park, died aged only 70 on July 21 after a battle with cancer. Remembered as the dressing room cheerleader and joker at all his clubs, he was a popular player in the squad that won the Isthmian League title in 1986-87

Des McMahon and Neale Stanley, teammates then at Wycombe and... See more

John Bignell, Des McMahon, Alan Gane & Neal Stanley